Lab – Mobile Device Information

Introduction

In this activity, you will use the Internet, a technical journal, or a local store to gather information about an Android and an iOS device. You will document the specifications of each Android and iOS device onto this worksheet. Be prepared to discuss your decisions regarding the devices you select.

Recommended Equipment

- PC with Internet Connection

Instructions

Step 1: Select an Android and iOS device to research. Record the hardware specifications in the boxes below.

Specifications	Android Device	iOS Device
Model	Galaxy S25 (SM-S931)	iPhone 17

Specifications	Android Device	iOS Device
Battery Information	4,000 mAh Li-Ion; 25W wired, 15W wireless (Qi2), 4.5W reverse wireless	~3,692 mAh; 40W wired (USB-C, PD), 25W MagSafe wireless; up to 30 hrs video playback
Screen Size and Resolution	6.2 in, 1080 × 2340 (Dynamic AMOLED 2X, 120Hz, ~416 ppi)	6.3 in, 1206 × 2622 (OLED, 120Hz ProMotion, always-on, ~460 ppi)
Size and Weight	146.9 × 70.5 × 7.2 mm; 162 g	149.6 × 71.5 × 7.95 mm; 177 g

Step 2: Based on your research, which mobile device would you select? Be prepared to discuss your decisions regarding the mobile device you select.

I would select the iPhone 17. Apple's tight integration between hardware and software (iOS) tends to result in smoother performance and more consistent long-term updates, often 6+ years of OS support, compared to many Android devices. The iPhone 17 also has a sharper display resolution, faster wired charging (40W), and if I already use other Apple products (Mac, iPad, Apple Watch), it integrates seamlessly through iCloud, AirDrop, and Handoff. Additionally, iPhones tend to hold their resale value better over time than most Android devices.

Answers may vary.
